

SUMMARY OF THE ORGANISATION, MANAGEMENT AND CONTROL MODEL PURSUANT TO LEGISLATIVE DECREE 231/2001

1. The Legislative Decree 231/2001 and the purpose of the Model

LEGISLATIVE DECREE 231/2001. Legislative Decree 231/2001 ('Decree 231') introduced into Italian law the administrative liability of legal persons and companies, which had previously been excluded. In 2001, therefore, the Italian legislator provided for specific sanctions affecting the assets of companies (and, therefore, the economic interests of shareholders), in the event that certain offences, specifically provided for in Decree 231, are committed in the interest or to the advantage of the company. The list of such offences has been progressively extended by subsequent legislative interventions.

An entity's liability under Decree 231 therefore arises if the following conditions are met:

- one of the offences listed exhaustively in Decree 231 has been committed;
- the offence was committed in the interest or to the advantage of the entity;
- the perpetrator of the offence is one of the persons holding functions of representation, administration or management of the entity or of one of its organisational units with financial and functional autonomy, as well as persons exercising, also de facto, the management and control thereof (i.e. one of the so-called 'apical persons', hereinafter 'Apicals' for the sake of brevity) and/or a person subject to the management or supervision of one of the Apicals.

The entity, on the other hand, is not liable if the aforementioned persons have acted solely in their own interest or in the interest of third parties.

EXCLUSION FROM LIABILITY. Decree 231 provides for the possibility that the liability of the entity is excluded under certain circumstances:

- "(a) the management body has adopted and effectively implemented, prior to the commission of the offence, organisational and management models capable of preventing offences of the kind committed;
- b) the task of supervising the operation of and compliance with the models and ensuring that they are updated has been entrusted to a body of the entity endowed with autonomous powers of initiative and control;
- c) the persons committed the offence by fraudulently circumventing the models of organisation and management;
- d) there has been no or insufficient supervision by the referred to in (b)'.*

Exoneration from liability of the entities is therefore conditional upon the active, effective, preventive and continuous adoption of an organisation and management model abstractly capable of preventing the offence that has occurred. The offence, therefore, must have been committed through fraudulent evasion of the prescriptions given by the entity and without such evasion being attributable to omitted or insufficient supervision by the supervisory body referred to in subparagraph (b).

PREDICATE OFFENCES. Decree 231 provides for an exhaustive list of offences (so-called 'predicate offences'), the commission of which, in the presence of the elements identified above, may give rise to the liability of the company. Below are the current categories of predicate offences provided for in Decree 231: (i) Undue receipt of payments, fraud to the detriment of the State, a public body or the European Union or for the purpose of obtaining public funds, computer fraud to the detriment of the State or a public body and fraud in public procurement; (ii) Computer crimes and unlawful processing of data; (iii) Organised crime offences; (iv) Embezzlement, extortion, undue inducement to give or promise benefits, bribery and abuse of office (v) Counterfeiting of money, public credit cards, revenue stamps and identification instruments or signs; (vi) Crimes against industry and trade; (vii) Corporate offences; (viii) Crimes for the purposes of terrorism or subversion of the democratic order; (ix) Female genital mutilation practices; (x) Crimes against the individual;

(xi) Market abuse; (xii) Manslaughter or grievous or very grievous bodily harm committed in breach of the rules on the protection of health and safety at work; (xiii) Receiving stolen goods, money laundering and use of money, goods or benefits of unlawful origin, as well as selflaundering; (xiv) Offences relating to violation of copyright; (xv) Inducement not to make statements or to make false statements to the judicial authorities (xvi) Environmental offences; (xvii) Employment of third-country nationals whose stay is illegal; (xviii) Racism and xenophobia; (xix) Fraud in sporting competitions, illegal gaming or betting and gambling, exercised by means of prohibited devices; (xx) Tax offences; (xxi) Smuggling; (xxii) Transnational offences.
